

Amridge University has been approved to participate in the National Council for State Authorization Reciprocity Agreement (NC-SARA), in which Alabama is a member state. NCSARA is an agreement among member states and institutions which have established national standards for distance learning. This is a voluntary agreement among member states and U.S. territories that establishes comparable national standards for the offering of postsecondary distance-education courses and programs. It is intended to make it easier for students to take online courses offered by postsecondary institutions based in another state. As a participating member, Amridge University is held to a standard of providing quality distance education.

In compliance with the U.S. Department of Education and the National Council for State Authorization Reciprocity Agreement (NC-SARA), Amridge University provides information pertaining to the following educational programs and are designed to meet educational requirements for specific professional licenses or certifications that are required for employment in certain occupations in several states.

Marriage and Family Therapy

Master of Arts in Marriage and Family Therapy

Master of Divinity in Marriage and Family Therapy

Professional Counseling

Master of Arts in Professional Counseling

Master of Divinity in Professional Counseling

Candidates must complete the degree, program, and/or coursework required by their chosen state. States also have licensing requirements beyond a program's graduation requirements that include post-master's supervised clinical experience, examination(s), background check, and application for a license. Professional licensure requirements vary by state. If you are considering an academic program that leads to professional licensure, we recommend you contact the appropriate licensing agency in your home state for information and guidance prior to starting a program outside your state.
